STATE OF FLORIDA

MILITARY DEPARTMENT

OFFICE OF THE ADJUTANT GENERAL

St. Augustine

4 January 1955

His Excellency, The Governor of Florida and Commander-in-Chief, Florida National Guard, Tallahassee, Florida

Sir:

Herewith is submitted the biennial report of the Adjutant General of Florida, pertaining to the administration of the Military Department, State of Florida, for the calendar years 1953 and 1954. This report is submitted in accordance with Section 250.10, Florida Statutes, 1949, and is intended to fulfill two purposes, (1) to provide information on the Florida National Guard for interested governmental and private organizations, and (2) to provide permanent reference material of historical value.

GENERAL

The mission of the Florida National Guard has remained unchanged during the calendar years 1953-1954. As in past years, that mission consists of two parts, State and Federal. The State mission is to provide organizations trained and equipped to function where necessary in the protection of life and property, and in the preservation of peace, order, and the public safety as directed by competent State authority. The Federal mission is to provide reserve components of the Army of the United States and the Air Force of the United States capable of operating efficiently in event of a national emergency.

There has been no change in the organizational structure of the Florida National Guard during the biennium. We still share with the State of Georgia the 48th Infantry Division, and share with the State of South Carolina the 51st Infantry Division, as well as continuing to maintain two battalions and a group headquarters of anti-aircraft artillery, two Transportation Truck companies, also a combat squadron of the Air National Guard. All units that were called to active federal service for the Korean War have been returned to the State.

Recruiting continues as one of the major problems of the National Guard, and consumes a considerable part of the time and effort of all commanders. Rumors are that contemplated changes by Congress in the Universal Military Training and Service Act in the near future may bring some relief in this regard. Despite the large turnover of personnel, the Florida National Guard has increased its strength during the biennium by approximately 38%.

Training generally has continued to improve. The increase in the number of units receiving Superior and Excellent ratings on both Armory and Field training reports has been considerable, and is most gratifying. This has been the result of increased strength, improved facilities, improved instruction through better education of personnel, and a greater awareness of the needs of national defense. The Florida National Guard continues to take full advantage of the educational opportunities offered by the Army and Air Force by each year filling its quotas to the technical and service schools operated by these agencies.

The program to improve the armory facilities of the Florida National Guard during the years 1953-1954 has been a major objective of this office. Full advantage has been taken of the funds allocated by the 1953 State Legislature for the construction of armories in the State. These funds with matching armory construction funds from the federal government, and the communities, have been combined to furnish to the State eleven new modern armories, whose construction at this time has either been completed or is nearing completion. Also additional area has been obtained at Camp Blanding Military Reservation by grant of several thousand acres from the federal government, thereby adding considerably to the facilities available there.

With the continued industrialization of Florida, the tremendous increase in population, and the other problems of government facing the State in the years ahead, the objective of the Florida National Guard to maintain an efficient, well trained, strong force for use by the State in the maintenance of a stable government, takes on an added emphasis.

Detailed reports as to organization, training, administration, logistical and fiscal support, are to be found in this biennial report under their appropriate headings.

b. "To train each unit to the degree of proficiency required by its primary mission (federal and state) starting with the squad or comparable unit and progressing to larger units as the smaller components become proficient."

2. Armory Training.

a. 1953—With the completion of the "three year cycle" in 1952 it became evident that the comparatively heavy turnover of personnel would in the future require all units to give, simultaneously, basic training, advanced individual training, and unit training. In 1953 unit commanders, under the supervision of higher staffs and commanders, were encouraged to emphasize subjects most needed by their own units based on the state of training within their unit.

b. 1954—The withdrawal of federal funds for the unit caretakers at the end of fiscal year 1954 (June 30, 1953) was in part compensated by an increase in personnel in the five Service Centers in the state. However increased receipts of equipment by units have placed maintenance requirements beyond the capabilities of the one full time employee in each unit. Maintenance has been emphasized and maintenance periods occur at prescribed intervals in all training schedules.

c. The number of units holding extra classes for noncomissioned officers in leadership, methods of instruction and related subjects has steadily increased throughout the period.

d. Armory training has been greatly aided by the increased supply of training aids and publications. Each unit now has a satisfactory reference library. Each armory has an adequate supply of visual training aids including a motion picture projector, an opaque projector and an overhead projector. A supply of training films is available to all units on a loan basis from Army, Navy and Air Force film libraries within the state.

3. Week-end Training.

All units engaged in week-end training either on a voluntary basis or as a substitute for armory drills. Many units held more than one week-end period. The primary purpose of week-end training is the qualification of personnel in small arms firing. An increasing number of units have added tactical situations to these periods. Field Artillery units have held service practice. Aviation units of the Air National Guard, the United States Navy, and Army National Guard have furnished planes for tracking missions for the AAA units and for observation by Field Artillery units. These and other tactical situations have given practical work to the various specialists in the units. The missions accomplished during this training have allowed more advanced training during the field training periods.

4. Staff Training.

Staff Training has continued. Week-end staff conferences have been held by battalion, regiment, and division staffs. Joint Division Staff conferences with the Georgia and South Carolina sections have been held in Georgia, South Carolina, and Florida. Effective in 1954, the Army Service Schools of the various arms and services are now prepared to furnish material for staff training at all levels. This service enables a commander to secure up to date staff training material for any type of staff training for his staff without following a rigid course of instruction. This service has been enthusiastically subscribed to by National Guard Commanders.

a. Week-end Staff Meetings for the two year period were conducted as follows:

Units	Fiscal Year 1953	Fiscal Year 1954
48th Infantry Division	2	2
51st Infantry Division	3	3
124th Infantry Regiment	2	2
211th Infantry Regiment	6	6
149th Field Artilley Battalion	2	2
227th AAA Group	..	2
148th AAA Bn, (AW) (SP)	2	2
265th AAA Bn, (AW) (M)	2	2
712th AAA Bn, (Gun 90mm)	..	2
202nd Medical Battalion	2	2
116th Field Artillery Battalion	2	2

5. Field Training.

a. Field Training throughout the period has emphasized subjects which are not practiced during the armory training period. Army Training Tests have been extended and the standard of performance has been raised. Recruit training and specialists schools have been concentrated in the first week. All units now go to a field bivouac area during the second week, living under combat conditions with only such support as would be furnished under combat conditions. Realism and night training are emphasized and extended.

b. Field Training during this period took place as follows:

6. School Program

Participation in attendance at Army Service Schools and enrollment in Army Extension Courses continues. An informal comparison of the enrollment in both types of schools with other Southeastern States, indicates a satisfactory participation by personnel of the Florida National Guard.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

1. Strength.

The relative standing of the Florida National Guard among the fifty two states, territories, the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico is best shown by the following.

Date	Aggregate Strength	Percentage Authorized Strength	Relative Standing
30 Sep 1954	7,014	66.0%	7
31 Dec 1952	5,179	51.5%	7

The above figures show a steady increase in actual strength, an increase in the percentage of authorized strength, and that Florida is maintaining its position in the top ten of the roll of states. That Florida has been able to maintain its relative position above many of the more populous states is due not only to the energy of its commanders, but also to the high esteem in which National Guard personnel and units are held throughout the state. Better facilities and new armories have helped in their localities.

2. Armory and Week-end Training.

The effectiveness of the above training is shown statistically below. Figures are as of the date Summer Field Training June and July, 1954.

No. of EM	No. Qualified in Individual Weapons	% Qualified
5,198	4,783	92.0%
No. of EM	No. Qualified in MOS	% Qualified
5,198	4,288	82.5%

The state of readiness shown above is highly satisfactory. It shows the ability of the Florida National Guard units to conduct proper basic and advanced individual training. Regulations require that National Guard units be organized at a lower strength than active units. Also forecasts indicate that future federal appropriations may not be sufficient to support this reduced strength Nation-wide. Several units within the state have reached their allowable strength. Others are approaching it. Other units with vacancies maintain their state of readiness by wise selections and appointments to key positions. As an example of efficient operation, the Army aviation units of the National Guard flew 2413 hours during the period of this report (Jan 1953—Nov 1954) without a reportable accident. The standard of armory training has been recognized by higher army headquarters in that during the period of this report, the requirements for separate basic training of recruits has been reduced from 24 hours to 16 hours.

3. Staff Training.

The movement of the Florida National Guard to Summer Field Training is roughly equivalent to the movement of all males of military ages from a city of 30,000. It includes rail, air, bus and motor movements and must be performed with the time allowance and financial allowance set by higher headquarters. It involves distances of 150 to 800 miles each way. It requires detailed planning with various civilian and military agencies over a period of several months. The effectiveness of the Florida National Guard staff is shown in the smooth performance of these moves, the absence of serious accidents and the efficient transition into the Field Training. Units have been observed to start training in camps within two hours of arrival. Camp schedules have been efficiently planned. The old saying about the Army of "Hurry up and wait" has been notably absent from Field Training.

4. School Program.

A modern army frequently receives complicated and expensive equipment which must be handled by specially trained personnel. In February 1954 it was announced that Florida would receive two helicopters provided trained Army Aviation School graduates were available in the Florida National Guard. Qualified Florida National Guard personnel volunteered to attend these schools and successfully completed these courses. The helicopters were delivered on time. The bulk of the school program is still largely officers and enlisted men who desire to take advantage of the opportunities for further professional education, but instances like the above will be more frequent in the future.

5. Field Training.

The percentage of National Guard personnel attending summer field training 1954 was 98.0. This high attendance is all the more impressive when it is remembered that neither the individual units nor the State Military Department has a free choice of dates. The dates must be coordinated with six other states and the capacities of field training sites to handle the units. There is no doubt that every year the dates assigned cause inconvenience or hardship in different localities. The high percentage of attendance can be attributed to the high state of morale in the Florida National Guard and the wholehearted cooperation of employers throughout the state. During this period, field training has shown a reduction in the time allowed for basic training, and qualification in individual weapons, as these have been more completely covered in week-end and armory training. Training schedules have been tightened and made more demanding on commanders and troops alike. More emphasis has been placed on realism, night exercises and combat conditions.

6. Conclusion.

The progress of the Florida National Guard in training has been aided by more equipment, more training aids, and the armory construction program. However, all of these would not have accomplished the results obtained, without the devotion to duty shown by members of the National Guard. The time has passed when a National Guard unit of any size can be properly managed in the two hours per week for which pay is authorized. The extra voluntary efforts made by commanders and other key personnel of units are responsible for the continued progress of the Florida National Guard.

SCHOOL PROGRAM

The attendance of National Guard Personnel at Service School Courses of Instruction continued as in previous years, in spite of a reduced amount of federal funds authorized for this purpose. All such funds were utilized for the training of key non-commissioned officers, newly commissioned officers, advanced training of officers and refresher courses.

School attendance during this two year period was as follows:

d. Special National Guard Officer Candidate Courses:

During the years 1953 and 1954 Chief, Army Field Forces conducted ten weeks Special National Guard Officer Candidate Courses. Graduation from such courses was considered as the equivalent of having successfully completed the 10-Series of the Army Extension Courses, for candidates applying for appointment as Reserve Commissioned Officers. In 1953 all such Officer Candidate Courses were conducted at the Army General School, Fort Riley, Kansas. In 1954 these courses were transferred to the Infantry School and the Artillery School.

Attendance of Florida National Guard Personnel at subject courses during this two year period was as follows:

SPECIAL STATE SIGNAL SCHOOLS

During the year 1953, Special Signal Schools were conducted in the State of Florida for the purpose of orienting Key Communications Personnel in the Characteristics, operation and maintenance of the many new types of radio equipment being issued to Florida National Guard troops. These schools were of eight hours duration and classes were conducted by qualified technical personnel from the Atlanta General Depot, Atlanta, Georgia. All instructions were carried out under the supervision of the State Maintenance Officer.

These schools were conducted in the cities as noted below and were attended by personnel from all Florida National Guard Units (Army). Total number of personnel attending was as is designated below:

During the year 1953, Special Signal Classes were conducted at the following locations throughout the state, for purpose of training all key radio personnel in the operation and maintenance of Radio Sets AN/GRC-3 through 8 series. These classes were conducted during the two hour scheduled weekly drill periods. A representative from the Atlanta General Depot Signal Section conducted the instruction periods under the supervision of the State Maintenance Officer. Classes were attended by Personnel from specified Florida National Guard Units in numbers as designated below.

SMALL ARMS QUALIFICATIONS

Increased interest in small arms firing has resulted in a decided increase in the number of men qualifying with these weapons during the biennium. RIFLE MATCHES

In order to stimulate interest in marksmanship a series of monthly rifle matches at Camp Blanding, Florida was begun in 1953. The interest in these matches was such that they have been continued since that time and have served to create interest in shooting and increase proficiency in marksmanship throughout many units in the North Florida area.

NATIONAL RIFLE MATCHES

In 1953 the National Rifle Association returned the National Rifle Matches to Camp Perry, Ohio, where they had been traditionally held during the period between World War I and II. Several hundred shooters from all parts of the United States and some foreign countries participated. The Florida National Guard sent a team to these matches both in 1953 and again in 1954 when they were again held at Camp Perry. The composition of these teams is as follows:

TALIAFERRO TROPHY MATCH

In 1953, 50 years after the first Taliaferro Trophy Match was held, the holding annually of this rifle match was resumed. Of interest is the following extract from the Report of the Adjutant General of Florida for 1903.

"The first of a series of competitions which it is planned to hold annually took place during the encampment this year. Honorable James P. Taliaferro, Florida's junior United States Senator, has given a handsome and valuable silver loving cup, which will be called the Taliaferro Trophy, to be annually competed for by the teams from the various organizations composing the Florida State Troops. * * * To the "Jacksonville Rifles", officially known as Company "F" 1st Infantry, belongs the honor of having first won this trophy."

A rifle competition known as the Taliaferro Trophy Match was held each year, with the exception of war years, from 1903 to 1940. This Match was resumed in 1953 and it is expected that it will be held annually hereafter.

INSTRUCTOR CORPS

During the biennium period there was at times a shortage of instructors and advisors occasioned by the withdrawal of officers for overseas assignments. This condition was corrected as quickly as possible and at the present time a full complement of these officers is assigned to the Florida National Guard. The officers and noncommissioned officers, detailed as instructors and advisors by the Department of the Army and the Department of the Air Force to the Florida National Guard and Air National Guard, have performed their duties in a most creditable manner and have given unstintingly of their time and knowledge. These officers and enlisted men of the regular military establishment have given most valuable service and advice in the training of the Army and Air National Guard, and are responsible in no small degree for the splendid state of training of the Florida National Guard troops and air units.

SELECTIVE SERVICE SECTION

With the splendid assistance of the State Director of Selective Service and the officers on duty at his headquarters, tne Selective Service Section of the Florida National Guard has continued its program of training throughout the biennium. The plan for the rapid expansion of the present Selective Service System within the State in the event of a full scale emergency, has, in coordination with the State Headquarters of Selective Service, been thoroughly studied and brought up to date. The Section has increased its strength to the maximum authorized. Field training was performed by the unit at Camp Stewart, Georgia in 1953 in conjunction with other National Guard Selective Service Sections in the Third Army area, and at Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Mississippi in 1954 with Selective Service Reserve and National Guard units from the Southeastern States.

FLORIDA AIR NATIONAL GUARD

TRAINING

1. General:

a. To maintain in the unit a state of readiness sufficiently high to assure the successful accomplishment of any national or state mission that is likely to be assigned.

b. National missions likely to be assigned required that the training objective for the unit include thorough preparation for immediate call to Federal Service and assignment to the Air Defense Command of the United States. Individual training had for its objectives the development of each officer and airman in his primary AFSC (Air Force Specialty Code) to the extent of his immediate efficiency in his field.

c. The objective for 1953 and 1954 was the completion of two years of a three year Training Program laid down by the Continental Air Command effective 1 January 1953.

d. Included throughout were training and school programs to compensate for losses in personnel, including key airmen and experienced officers. 110 airmen attended the Basic Training Course of the Regular Air Force at Lackland AFB, Texas, graduating on 27 August 1954.

2. Air Base Training:

1953 and 1954 saw two years of the three year Training Directive completed with no serious foreseeable inability to complete the three year plan laid down by Continental Air Command by the date set, 1 January 1956.

3. Field Training:

a. Airmen:

Airmen were given advanced as well as Wing organizational training in their Air Force Specialty Codes. Unit training consisted of the Wing exercises in carrying out the mission of the Wing and the firing of the unit aircraft. Knowledge of the Wing organization and its functions from Wing to Group to Squadrons brought us much closer to the Regular Air Force Training Standards. The mission of the unit and the necessary coordination and cooperation of the various sections to carry out this mission were strongly stressed at all times.

b. Officers:

Pilot training was governed by Air Defense Command Directives. Primary goal was to qualify all pilots in their role under Air Defense Command to repel aerial invasion of the United States in case of enemy attack. Pilots qualified in air to air gunnery, ground controlled interceptions, instrument and formation proficiency. The squadron pilots learned to function in a Fighter Group organization under actual operational conditions.

c. On 10 July 1954, 12 pilots from this unit participated in "Operation Checkpoint", a joint Air Force-Navy-Air National Guard training exercise conducted by the Air Defense Command. Purpose of the exercise was to train pilots in the interception and destruction of invading enemy aircraft. "Operation Checkpoint" enabled this unit to gain much valuable training.

4. Week-end Training:

a. Airmen:

Completion of small arms firing by airmen as well as continuous on-the-job training of the airmen in their fields as mechanics, communications, food service, supply, administration, operations, installations, motor vehicle, air police and medical.

b. Officers:

Pilots were kept proficient in the basic tactical aircraft, performing all types of training as laid down by Continental Air Command directives. This training was accomplished in order to maintain a high degree of efficiency in Fighter type aircraft (propellers and jet types). Throughout both years numerous air to air gunnery exercises were conducted keeping the pilots combat ready.

5. Staff Training:

1953 and 1954. Conference held in Atlanta, Georgia in 1953 and in Savannah, Georgia in 1954. The key personnel of the 116th Fighter Bomber Wing were present to coordinate the planning for the Field Training of the Wing for the year.

6. School Program:

Constant on-the-job training and classes for specialists and efforts for the assignment of more pilots to keep the unit to its maximum strength and fulfill the National Guard Bureau desire for pilot trainees and cadets was carried on throughout. The Pilot Trainee and Cadet quota allows for all who are interested. Numerous personnel attended USAF Technical Schools, receiving more thorough training in their specialties than could possibly be given by the squadron on part time basis. F-86 Mobile Training Unit instructed pilots and mechanics on characteristics of F-86 aircraft during the period 22 February-26 March 1954.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

1. General:

a. 1953. Airmen were phased through the first year of the three year Training Program laid down by the Continental Air Command. This was not 100% due to the inevitable turnover of personnel and time element.

b. 1954. Airmen were phased through the second year of the three year Training Program laid down by the Continental Air Command. This was not 100% due to the inevitable turnover of personnel and time element. 110 airmen attended Basic Training Course at Lackland AFB, Texas, graduating 27 August 1954. Unit anticipates sending 100 each year to this course.

c. 1953. All pilots of this unit maintained the minimum flying requirements; these are the same requirements as Regular Air Force flying personnel.

During field training in 1954 this unit was awarded "The Armistead Trophy" for "superior performance of duty in furtherance of tactical mission". The 159th Fighter Bomber Squadron was rated by the USAF during July 1954 as the outstanding squadron in the Air National Guard of the United States.

This unit fulfilled its Federal requirements of personnel over 90% thereby receiving authority to organize a Replacement Training Squadron. This squadron was organized and Federally recognized 3 October 1954.

2. Air Base Training:

1953-1954. The high level of efficiency in Air Base Training attained in previous years was maintained. Factors which handicapped training efforts were: (1) Inadequate training aids; (2) shortage of training manuals in various specialties; and (3) personnel turnover.

3. Field Training:

a. 1953. Field Training took place as follows:

Unit	Training Site	Dates
Headquarters, Florida Air National Guard	Travis Field, Savannah, Ga.	26 Jul-9 Aug
159th Fighter Bomber Squadron	Travis Field, Savannah, Ga.	26 Jul-9 Aug

b. 1954. Field Training took place as follows:

Unit	Training Site	Dates
Headquarters, Florida Air National Guard	Travis Field, Savannah, Ga.	11 Jul-25 Jul
159 Fighter Bomber Squadron	Travis Field, Savannah, Ga.	11 Jul-25 Jul

4. Week-end Training:

Training accomplished on week-ends was highly advantageous. Firing the aircraft as well as the training resulting for the airman is the best training in the book. Attendance was very satisfactory. Funds available to provide pay for this purpose has been satisfactory and it is believed additional funds (Federal) will be in the program to a greater extent in the coming years. Six extra days were allotted for gunnery and this additional time gave the pilots part of the additional time necessary to qualify in gunnery, our primary objective.

5. Staff Training:

Being one unit, staff work is somewhat limited although contact via correspondence with the Wing and Group is discussed during the assemblies. Meetings of the key personnel of the unit is a constant and valued part of this unit's activities and progress.

6. School Program:

ARMORY CONSTRUCTION

Ft. Lauderdale Armory.

During the 1951-1953 biennium, the Congress of the United States appropriated funds for construction of National Guard Armories predicated on the utilization of State and Federal funds for support of the program. No State funds for Florida were available during the aforementioned biennium. However, the Board of County Commissioners of Broward County, by agreement with the Armory Board, State of Florida, deposited the sum of $40,000.00 with the State Treasurer to the credit of a trust fund designated as the "Fort Lauderdale Armory Construction Fund", to be used as the State's contribution in the construction of a National Guard Armory at Fort Lauderdale. The work proceeded through the planning phase to the letting of a contract, and construction was completed and the building accepted on 1 October 1953.

Armory Board Policy on Armory Use.

Basically, armories must be for the housing, training and administration of the military. The Armory Board, however, recognizes the fact that the National Guard stems from the grass roots, a company or battery is a community affair, the personnel is composed of the sons and husbands of the citizenry, and the support of the community is vital to the success of this component of the State and National Defense. Military facilities must necessarily be constructed from money received from the taxpayers and additional justification for the expenditure of funds can be placed on the construction of Armories where in addition to their basic use, they can be of some value to the community for community affairs. National Guard Armories, because of the nature of use requiring the storage of classified documents and material, must be under the control of the military, and the local Post Commander is delegated this control and management by the Armory Board. It is not only the policy but the desire of the Armory Board that armories be utilized by the citizenry of the community to the fullest extent possible where the use is not to the detriment of the public interest and does not interfere materially with its primary use, which is the training of the military unit, or units, stationed thereat. Inasmuch as the use of any building requires expense as pertains to supervision, utilities, sanitary supplies, cleaning and other maintenance, it is necessary that funds in the form of rental accrue to defray this additional expense. The amount of such rental is determined by the Post Commander, assisted by other officers comprising the Post Council, and is normally based on the use to be made of the building and whether the enterprise is charitable or commercial in nature.

State Funds.

The Adjutant General submitted a budget for the construction of additional armories to the 1953 session of the Legislature in the sum of $500,000.00, it having been determined that that sum would approximate the amount which should be obligated during the biennium based on sites available. The Legislature saw fit to reduce the appropriation to $300,000.00 and the program was, therefore, altered to conform with budgetary requirements.

Federal Funds.

The Department of Defense developed a standard type Armory designed both architecturally and functionally for a northern climate. This plan while considered adequate for the training and housing of a National Guard unit, did not lend itself to utilization by the civil community nor was it in keeping with the current architectural trend in Florida. Federal funds are allocated only on the criteria as established by the basic plans, which included no furnishings, shelving or outside utilities, and limited the square footage of the structure and materials to which they would contribute. The amount of Federal funds allocated for the standard type armory are available for use in building the type armory designed for use in Florida where such building is approved as meeting the minimum requirements of the standard type. This has enabled the Armory Board to design armories in keeping with the architectural trend in Florida.

Community Funds.

A number of Communities desiring an Armory exceeding the criteria established by the Federal Government in order that it be more adaptable to the various uses of the community, contributed sums for Armory construction varying from $25,000.00 to $50,000.00. Under this community contribution program, agreements between the Armory Board and the agency or agencies of the community contributing the funds were made and separate trust funds established with the Treasurer of the State of Florida for each specific Armory. In addition to the aforementioned funds received from Broward County for the Fort Lauderdale Armory, the following contributions were made:

Clearwater	City of Clearwater	$20,000.00
	County of Pinellas	20,000.00
Eustis	County of Lake	50,000.00
Dade City	City of Dade City	5,000.00
	County of Pasco	10,000.00
	Board of Public Instruction, Pasco County	5,000.00
	Pasco Armory Committee, Inc.	5,000.00
Quincy	City of Quincy	12,500.00
	County of Gadsden	12,500.00
Homestead	City of Homestead	12,500.00
	County of Dade	12,500.00
DeLand	City of DeLand	25,000.00
	County of Volusia	25,000.00

Total contributions made by communities during the current biennium were in the amount of $215,000.00.

Accomplishments.

In addition to the construction of Armories at the aforementioned locations, Armories are currently under construction at Bonifay, Crestview, Fort Myers, and Hollywood, and contracts will be let for construction of an Armory at DeFuniak Springs and an extension to the Armory at West Palm Beach prior to the end of this fiscal year.

Particular attention is called to the fact that with the $300,000.00 of appropriated State funds made available for Armory construction by the 1953 session of the Florida State Legislature, the Armory Board is constructing Armories in the total value of approximately $1,377,000.00.

Future Program.

The Armory Board is currently in the process of acquiring real estate in all locations in the State of Florida where units are housed in temporary quarters. Budgetary requests have been prepared for the 1955 session of the Florida State Legislature which would complete the Armory program for the Florida National Guard based on its present organization. Under this program, Armories would be constructed at Chipley, Sarasota, North Miami, St. Augustine, Belle Glade, Lake Wales, Cocoa, Marianna, Fort Pierce, Palatka, Pensacola, Jacksonville and Orlando. It will be noted that permanent National Guard Armories presently exist in the Cities of Jacksonville and Orlando. However, the Jacksonville Armory was constructed in 1914 and the increase in troop strength makes it mandatory that additional facilities be acquired. The National Guard Armory at Orlando is owned by the City of Orlando and is jointly occupied by the Florida National Guard and the United States Naval Reserve. It is contemplated that an additional unit will be organized in the City of Orlando, making it necessary that an additional facility be obtained therefor.

National Guard Air Base, Jacksonville.

At the time of the organization of the Florida Air National Guard in 1946, facilities for housing the units were made available by the Federal Goverment in temporary World War II buildings on the west side of the Thomas Cole Imeson Airport, Jacksonville, Florida. The air squadron, designated as the 159th Fighter-Bomber Squadron, flourished and was one of the many National Guard units called to service during the Korean incident. Upon the return of the 159th Fighter-Bomber Squadron to State control, the units were again established in the old facilities which had outlived their planned life, were not adequate for the purpose for which they were then used, and were beyond the state of economical repair.

The Adjutant General prepared a longe range plan for development of a new facility, and assisted the United States in negotiation of a long term lease between the City of Jacksonville and the United States of America for a tract of land in the northeast corner of the Thomas Cole Imeson Airport, said tract consisting of 32.34 acres. Federal funds were then obtained and construction began on this new air base facility, the only cost to the State being for planning and supervision.

Today, the Florida Air National Guard has an air base facility second to none, consisting of all utilities; paving; aircraft parking apron; warehouse; motor service shop; paint, oil and dope building; fuel facilities; and other appurtenances. The total cost to the Federal Goverment for the facilities was $1,023,809.75.

RIFLE RANGES

Location	Ownership	Authority for Use
Camp Blanding	United States	License
West Palm Beach (Morrison Field)	United States	License
Wakula (Silver Lake)	U. S. Department of Agriculture	Permit
Tampa (MacDill Field)	United States	Verbal Permission
Panama City (Eglin Field)	United States	Verbal Permission

It is indicated that the rifle range at West Palm Beach will become unavilable for use within the near future due to construction of a highway through the danger area. A rifle range for troops in the Palm Beach-Miami area is a necessity and a project is now under study by the National Guard Bureau for the construction of a rifle range west of Miami. An additional project is under study by the National Guard Bureau covering construction of a rifle range in the Ocala National Forest for troops in the area bounded on the north by Ocala and Daytona Beach and on the south by Cocoa and Orlando. Both of the aforementioned projects were developed in the office of the Adjutant General.

CAMP BLANDING MILITARY RESERVATION

In 1939, the Armory Board of the State of Florida purchased approximately 30,000 acres of land in Clay County as a training site for the Florida National Guard, this site having been named Camp Blanding in honor of Lieutenant General Albert H. Blanding, Florida National Guard, Retired. In 1940, these lands were leased to the United States of America and a large training camp capable of taking care of two divisions was built on the State owned lands. It was necessary that additional acreage be available for training sites to include Small Arms Ranges, and the Federal Government purchased approximately 40,000 acres of land contiguous to the State owned Reservation, and, in addition thereto, secured leases on approximately 100,000 acres for maneuver purposes. At the conclusion of World War II, the leased lands were returned to the orginal owners. The Adjutant General, seeing the need of the Federally owned lands for immediate training of the Florida National Guard and foreseeing the necessity for the use of the Federal lands in case of a large mobilization of troops, obtained from the United States of America a Right-of-Entry covering said lands in order that they could be used for training purposes. Under this Right-of-Entry, the Armory Board of the State of Florida was not in complete control of the property and was without authority to exploit resources thereon or to practice forest management and furnish the necessary security thereto.

Following conferences with the Honorable Spessard L. Holland, Senior Senator from Florida, and the Honorable Charles E. Bennett, Congressman from the district in which this land is located, in 1951 a Bill by which title to the Federally owned lands would be transferred to the Armory Board of the State of Florida was introduced into the 82nd Congress. Due to lack of proper ground work and misunderstanding on the part of the personnel reviewing this Bill as to the intent and purpose thereof, an unsatisfactory report was made by the Congressional Committee studying the Bill, with the result that it was not passed during the 82nd Congress.

The Adjutant General, realizing that the purpose behind the Bill was to the public interest, immediately proceeded with conferences with the Department of the Army and a new Bill was prepared and introduced in the 83rd Congress resulting in its passage and enactment of Public Law No. 493 of the 83rd Congress entitled "An Act to provide for the conveyance of the federally owned lands which are situated within Camp Blanding Military Reservation, Florida to the Armory Board, State of Florida, in order to consolidate ownership and perpetuate the availability of Camp Blanding for miliatry training and use."

Under the provisions of this Act, the Federal lands will be deeded to the Armory Board of the State of Florida by the United States of America, reserving, however, to the Federal government fissionable materials determined pursuant to the Atomic Energy Act of 1946. The Act further provides that the deed will be conveyed to the Armory Board of the State of Florida only after the execution of an Agreement between the Armory Board and the United States of America covering the use of revenue accruing from the Federally owned lands through exploitation of timber products, mineral, etc. The entire Reservation to include both Federal and State lands must be held intact in order that it be available for military uses in case of national emergency and the Reservation can be used for military purposes only. Negotiations leading up to the aforementioned Agreement have been in progress for several months and it is expected that the Agreement will be consummated and the Deed delivered early in the calendar year 1955.

Utilization.

At the present time, Camp Blanding Military Reservation is utilized by the Florida National Guard for training of troops both in range firing and maneuvers. It is used for the receipt, storage, and issue of Federal property allocated to the Florida National Guard. Maintenance Shops at Camp Blanding perform all repairs and maintenance to National Guard property which cannot be taken care of by the units at home station and a Concentration Site for the storage of unit property over and above that actually needed by the troops at home station is operated.

Several warehouses are utilized by the Florida State Improvement Commission as a distribution center for surplus property obtained by them for educational institutions in the State of Florida. The Florida State Prison Farm utilizes a portion of Camp Blanding for grazing and the production of beef cattle for use by State Institutions.

Training Activities.

During the biennium, the rifle range at Camp Blanding was utilized by the Florida National Guard for weekend firing. Approximately 9,394 man days of firing were conducted by the Florida National Guard during this period. In addition, the rifle range was utilized by personnel of the Marine Detachment, Jacksonville Naval Air Station; Florida Military District; 3rd Marine Aircraft Wing, Miami; Headquarters, Reserve Officers Training Corps, Gainesville; U. S. Naval Station, Green Cove Springs; and the 937th Engineer Aviation Group, Orlando Air Force Base, with an estimated 12,686 individuals firing.

A bombing range is located at Stevens Lake, and is utilized by the U. S. Atlantic Fleet, Fleet Air, Jacksonville Naval Air Station, under a special permit from the Armory Board, State of Florida. The Navy also jointly utilizes approximately 13,000 acres in the north portion of Camp Blanding for a bombing range.

During the biennium, the facilities at Camp Blanding were utilized by the Florida National Guard on fourteen (14) occasions for the purpose of conducting Staff Conferences and unit training. A number of map problems and unit exercises were conducted throughout the training terrain at the Reservation. There were sixty-two (62) unit weekends of utilization of the facilities incident to rifle firing. These included overnight accommodations and meals.

STATE PROPERTY

There are approximately ninety-four (94) Memorandum Receipt Accounts maintained by the State Quartermaster for State property issued to units of the Florida National Guard. These properties consist of office furniture and equipment, and miscellaneous items required for the efficient operation of the various units or organizations and which are not included in the applicable Table of Organization and Equipment for supply from Federal sources.

There is also a quantity of organizational field equipment maintained by the State Quartermaster for immediate delivery to any unit in the State requiring the items for use during periods of hurricane relief, disaster, or civil disturbance when called to Active State Duty to aid civil authorities.

Chapter 220.49, Laws of Florida 1943, revising Section 790.08, Florida Statutes 1941, subsection (2) directs that all confiscated weapons "shall be forthwith delivered by the Sheriff, or Chief of Police, having custody thereof to the Adjutant General of the Military Department of the State, who is hereby made the custodian of such weapons and arms for the State". During the calendar year 1953 and 1954, confiscated weapons have been received from the following agencies:

Clearwater Police Department
Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission
Jacksonville Police Department
Miami Police Department
Orlando Police Department
St. Petersburg Police Department
Sheriff, Duval County
Sheriff, Marion County
Sheriff, Volusia County
Tampa Police Department

It will be noted that, during the past two years, only a few of the City and County police authorities have turned over weapons in accordance with the above referred to law. It is recommended that the turn in of confiscated weapons by all Peace Officers of the State be enforced.

FAITHFUL PERFORMANCE BOND

All commanders of units of the Florida National Guard and all employees of the Military Department (not otherwise required by law to be bonded) are bonded in the sum of $2,500.00 by a Public Employees Faithful Performance Blanket Position Bond. Each employee is bonded upon entrance on duty and remains covered by bond until cleared of all property and funds after being terminated from position.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION INSURANCE

The Military Department is a self insuror and as such has received and paid nine (9) claims for medical attendance and treatment in the amount of $367.45.

FISCAL SUPPORT BY FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

In accordance with policies of the Departments of the Army and the Air Force, the U. S. Property and Fiscal Officer is charged with the responsibility of handling all details pertaining to the Administration of Federal Funds appropriated for operation of the Florida National Guard and the Florida Air National Guard. The USP&FO maintains records as to funds allocated to the State and insures that such funds are expended only for authorized purposes. Actual cash is not handled since appropriate Army Air Finance Officers handle the disbursement of such funds based on vouchers approved by the USP&FO for the Adjutant General.

The USP&FO maintains accountable records of all military equipment loaned to Florida by the Federal Government. He is charged with the responsibility of insuring that the maximum of authorized equipment is requisitioned from proper supply agencies of the Army and Air Force and that such equipment is made available to National Guard Units in order to adequately carry out their training mission. Due to limited storage space in the various armories and due to limited training time, much of the equipment authorized for units can not be stored in their armories. Such equipment is stored for the units in the Concentration Site where it can be made available to the various units for summer field training or upon mobilization. However, all Army Units of the Florida National Guard are equipped at all times to the extent that they can support themselves in the field at any time when called out for State emergency duty or when alerted for Federal duty. The Air Units, due to exceptionally well planned facilities, are equipped so as to be self-supporting at any time they might be alerted for any type duty.

For each succeeding year, the total dollar value of Federal support continues to show increases. These increases in support result from increased responsibilities as to training, administration and supply of the Florida National Guard.

For Fiscal Year 1953 and 1954, ending 30 June 1954, the United States Government, through the National Guard Bureau, made the following contributions of funds and property in support of the Florida National Guard:

A Field Maintenance Shop for the repair of all types of Federal equipment issued to Army Units of the Florida National Guard is located at Camp Blanding, Florida. Service Centers are located at Miami, Tampa, Jacksonville, Haines City, Eustis, Bonifay and Camp Blanding for the purpose of performing organizational maintenance of vehicles and other mechanical equipment within their localities. During the biennium, a total of two hundred and five (205) items were evacuated to Regular Army installations for repairs. This was due to lack of facilities at the State Shops.

Lost time, due to injury to personnel from accidents, amounted to two hundred and fifty-eight (258) man-hours, or 1.59% of the total man-hours available.

During the biennium, personnel from the maintenance shop performed contact team and inspection services amounting to seven hundred and seventy-nine (779) man-days. This service was in addition to regular field maintenance activities.

A Concentration Site is located at Camp Blanding for the purpose of storing and maintaining equipment not required by units for armory training, but which is required by units for summer field training periods. This equipment is processed and deprocessed once each year, and is given in-storage maintenance on a thirty-day cycle during the in-storage periods. The Concentration Site processed, during the biennium, one thousand, six hundred and sixty-nine (1,669) mechanical items for storage and issued to units, for use during summer field training, one thousand, three hundred and ninety-four (1,394) items. No man-hours were lost at the Concentration Site from injury to personnel.

Maintenance of the bulk of Federal Air Force Equipment issued to Air National Guard Units is performed by the Maintenance Division of the 159th Fighter-Bomber Squadron, Florida Air National Guard at Thomas Cole Imeson Airport, Jacksonville, Florida. A small percentage of Florida Air National Guard Maintenance is performed by the Army Field Maintenance Shop at Camp Blanding, Florida; and certain major repairs of aircraft are performed by regular Air Force Installations.

Of the sixty (60) Air Technicians employed on a full time basis by the Florida Air National Guard, forty (40) are assigned to the Air Maintenance Division performing the following highly skilled operations:

Radar Specialist
Electronics Engineer
Radio Repairman
Machinist
Welder
Aircraft Mechanic
Sheet Metal Worker
Gun Sight Specialist

During the biennium these Air Technicians expended a total of approximately one-hundred and fifty-three thousand, six hundred (153,600) man-hours in support of Florida Air National Guard Aircraft, along with added maintenance support to numerous Department of Defense transit Aircraft passing through Jacksonville.

Three (3) automotive mechanics were employed on a full time basis by the Florida Air National Guard and during the biennium these men completed a total of approximately nine hundred (900) work orders, servicing eighty (80) motor vehicles, and expending a total of approximately five thousand three hundred (5,300) man hours in the performance of their duties.

NATIONAL GUARD OFFICER'S ASSOCIATION OF FLORIDA

The organization known today as the National Guard Officers Association of Florida was founded in 1903. That original association had practically the same ideas and objectives as the present association: to represent the Florida National Guard in all matters affecting it in its relationship to the National Defense Program in the State of Florida and the United States; and further that it shall remain absolutely non partisan with respect to political activities.

Each state, territory and the District of Columbia of the United States has an organization similiar to that of Florida, which is affiliated with and patterned after the National Guard Association of the United States. In Florida the duly elected officers of the association are usually named, along with other delegates appointed by the Adjutant General, to attend the General Conference of the National Guard Association of the United States. These General Conferences are held annually, usually in October in various different cities of the United States. Florida has been honored three times by being host to the General Conference of the National Guard Association of the United States. The 25th General Conference in 1904 and the 47th General Conference in 1926 were held in St. Augustine, Florida. The 76th General Conference in 1954 was held in Miami, Florida. Only three states, California, Missouri and New York, and Washington, D. C., have been hosts to the General Conference more times than has the State of Florida.

The National Guard Officers Association of Florida holds Annual Conferences in various selected cities in Florida. Nationally known military and civilian leaders usually comprise the guest speakers along with state and local dignitaries who are invited to attend. At these General Conferences the accomplishments of the Association for the preceding year are disseminated and plans for future legislation and furtherance of the aims of the association are announced. Officers to serve the association for the ensuing year, along with the chairmen of the standing committees, are elected or appointed in accordance with the Constitution and By-Laws. The officer corps of the State of Florida numbers some 625 and of this number more than one-third, along with their ladies, attend the conferences. Practically every city in the state from Pensacola to Homestead is represented at this annual conference.

During the first 33 years of the organization, conferences were held at fairly regular intervals. In 1936 a reorganization of the Association took place, and at that time the Constitution and By-Laws adopted became the keystone upon which the members of the Florida National Guard were to make their organization into the powerful voice it is recognized as today. During the World War II years of 1941-1945, during which period the entire Florida National Guard was in Active Federal service, the Association was naturally inactive. In 1946 the Association resumed statewide activities for all Florida Guardsmen.

For the past several years the membership of the Florida National Guard in both the State and National Associations has stood at 100% of the roster of the officers of the Florida National Guard.
